BICENTENNIAL PROJECT

The Bicentennial Committee of Monmouth when formed by Mr. George Goodfellow in 1971, decided to research and mark as many as possible the houses, sites and other buildings of 100 years and older. The work started immediately and continued through 1976. Many of the Historical Societies, Committees, and Commissions co-operated in this effort.

Volunteers have attempted to date these buildings and sites to the best of their ability, using the records available. This was done from an historical viewpoint, using family genealogies, records in the Hall of Records, Freehold, details of architecture, old time maps, information from owners and stories of old timers. If a portion of the old building remained, it was noted and marked because it showed a family had lived there.

The committee thanks all those societies, committees and individuals for their interest and efforts in making this project so successful. It feels that a feeling for the historical of various communities has been developed and it is hoped that will aid in preserving these old landmarks.

Historic Structures in Middletown Township

Bronze plaques were awarded houses and other sites selected as worthy of preservation by the Middletown Tercentenary Commission in 1964. These markers bore a circa date for each location.

Red dots in a folder issued by the Bicentennial Commission in 1976, show structures that received the Tercentenary bronze plaque plus a few others added when the folder and an accompanying map were printed. A few plaqued houses are now gone. Numbered structures are those which were standing in the times of the early settlers, the Revolutionary years and the earliest days of the Republic. The others are of the Federal through mid-Victorian periods.
